STANDARD PLAYBOOK · BOARDROOM

The Boardroom Loop

Sidebar → Boardroom. Calls are Monday at 1:00 PM Eastern. The window opens the day before and closes at the time printed in the page header.

Do this work before the call, not during it.

Thirty minutes, three stages, in order

STAGE 1 · 5 MIN	STAGE 2 · 10 MIN	STAGE 3 · 15 MIN
Return and Report	Domino	Domino Flow

Everything autosaves. The Save progress button in the header is there if you want to force it. The left rail (This week's loop) shows all four stages with a count beside each one. A greyed stage is locked, not broken.

HARD STOP

Two locks you cannot skip

LOCK	WHAT OPENS IT
The Domino is locked. "Answer yes or no first. Then the Domino opens."	Answer Did you complete that Domino? in Return and Report. That one answer is the only gate.
The Domino Flow is locked. "Submit your Domino first. Domino Flow opens right after."	Press Submit Domino at step 5 of 5.

1 Return and Report

5 minutes · Report what happened

The top panel shows Your prior Domino: what you committed to, why it mattered, the Sunday change, and the world if you completed it. Read it before you answer anything. First loop ever shows Baseline week instead and sends you straight to the Domino.

1. Did you complete that Domino? → Yes, I did it or No, not yet

This is the whole gate. Answer it truthfully in three seconds. Yes means bank what changed. No means name the pattern, not the person. Nobody else sees this answer attached to your name.

2. How do you feel about what happened?

The on-screen instruction is the standard: answer honestly, patterns not judgment. Two or three sentences. You are writing to your future self, who will read this next Monday.

3. Feeling rating from 1 to 10

Gut number, not a calculation. It feeds your Weekly Mirror average on the right.

4. Anything else you want to share? (optional)

Context your coach would need to make sense of the week. Skip it if there is none.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

Yes or no in three seconds. Two or three honest sentences. A gut number. Then press Choose your Domino before minute six.

2 Domino

10 minutes · Declare the next one

Five steps. One screen each. Steps 2 through 5 are required.

Step 1 · Choose your Core Four lane

LANE	WHAT LIVES THERE
Body	Health, energy, discipline.
Being	Faith, identity, presence.
Balance	Family, time, boundaries.
Business	Growth, team, execution.

Pick the lane the work actually lives in, not the lane you wish you were working. Your Weekly Mirror tracks your most common lane, and a year of nothing but Business is data.

Step 2 · What is the one thing you want to get done?

One sentence. The test on screen: specific enough to answer yes or no next week. "Work on retention" fails that test. "Call the 12 policies renewing in October and book 6 reviews" passes it. If you cannot picture yourself clicking Yes or No against it next Monday, rewrite it.

Step 3 · Why is that the one thing?

What it unlocks. A Domino is named a Domino because it knocks something else over. If nothing falls after it, you picked a task, not a Domino.

Step 4 · What changes by Sunday evening if this is done?

Describe the difference someone else would notice. Your team, your spouse, a client. If the only person who could tell is you, go smaller and more concrete.

Step 5 · How does finishing this Domino feed the rest of your life?

This is the one most people rush. Business Dominoes that cost you Balance are not wins. Say out loud what this buys you outside the lane it lives in.

Press Submit Domino. You will see Domino locked in, and The Room unlocks at the bottom of the page: counts only, no names, no lanes, no Domino text. Yours goes in first. That is the deal. Changed your mind? Edit submission and Delete submission stay available until the window closes. Deleting clears the whole week, including your Flow.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

One sentence you could not wriggle out of next Monday, in the lane the work actually lives in, with a Sunday change someone else would notice.

3 Domino Flow

15 minutes · Prep your breakout

Ten steps, all required, shared with your coach. This is what you bring into the breakout room, so the group works on the real thing instead of spending fifteen minutes finding it. Your working Domino stays pinned at the top of the screen while you answer.

#	STEP	THE QUESTION ON SCREEN	ANSWER IT LIKE THIS
1	Title	Give this Domino Flow a name	Something you will recognize when your coach reads it aloud.
2	The Issue	What is the biggest issue standing behind this Domino?	The thing the Domino is actually fighting. Go one level under the task.
3	Domain	Which domain does the issue live in?	Body, Being, Balance, or Business. It can differ from your Domino lane, and that gap is worth noticing.
4	The Target	What do you ultimately want here?	The end state, not the next step.

5	The Obstacle	What is in the way right now?	Name one. If you list five, you have not decided yet.
6	Past Action	What have you already tried?	Facts and dates. This stops the room from handing you advice you already burned.
7	The Fruit	What did that produce?	The actual result, including zero.
8	The Gap	Where do you still want help?	The specific ask. This is the sentence the breakout runs on.
9	The Cost	What does it cost you and the business if this stays unresolved?	Dollars, hours, people, or marriage capital. Make it concrete enough to sting.
10	The Action	What is the Domino action, in one sentence?	One move, this week, that you control.

Press Finish Domino Flow. The page marks your pre-call work complete and you can edit answers until the window closes.

WHAT GOOD LOOKS LIKE

One issue, one obstacle, one ask. Your coach reads step 8 and knows exactly what the breakout is for.

4 During and after the call

Not part of the thirty minutes

Notes / Recording stays editable while the window is open. Private notes are yours alone: your coach, the admin roster, The Room, and every other member never see them. The recap and recording appear here after they are published.

What the page is telling you

Top strip

Call countdown, submission status, your kept streak, your feeling rating.

Weekly Mirror (right side)

Kept count over your last eight loops, recent feeling average, most common lane, and your last four Dominoes marked kept or missed. This is the pattern view. Read it before you pick this week's lane.

Your attendance (bottom)

Current streak, show rate, best run. Private to you. A call you just attended takes a day or two to confirm.

The Room (bottom)

How many submitted this week and how many kept last week's Domino. Counts only, by design.

Who sees what

STAYS PRIVATE TO YOU	GOES TO YOUR COACH	THE ROOM SEES COUNTS ONLY
Private notes, always	Return and Report answers	Number submitted this week
Your attendance and streak	Your feeling rating	Number who kept last week
	Your Domino, all five parts	No names, no lanes, no text
	Your full Domino Flow

The standard: every Monday you answer for the last one and declare the next one. One thing. Specific enough to answer yes or no next week. That is the loop.
